Professor Paul Miller
Director
Institute for Educational & Social Equity

On behalf of the Board, staff and Fellows of the Institute for Educational & Social Equity, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the Institute's annual "Equity in Education & Society" conference. Whether you are a repeat attendee/presenter or this is your first IESE conference, you are welcome! You matter. You belong here.

At the Institute, we believe that EDI is everybody's business, and we are therefore grateful that so many of you, from such diverse organisational types, have found solidarity with our message. Our conference comes at a time of increased polarisation of 'equity' concerns in the UK and globally, and no country, no region, no industry, no individual is spared. Nevertheless, we are living through a great moment of opportunity, to advance social justice work, like never before.

Doing EDI work is extremely challenging, especially in apathetic and resistant national and/or organisational contexts. Yet, we should take hope and inspiration from the efforts of leaders and other organisational stakeholders who working hard to build more inclusive organisations. I hope the keynote and other presentations, and the conversations together, will encourage and renew us as we seek to widen and deepen our work. Thanks to all who have supported this event. We see you. We are grateful. We are, because of you.

The image displays a 10x10 grid of dots. The dots are arranged in a pattern that is symmetric about the main diagonal. The main diagonal is highlighted with larger dots. The pattern suggests a banded matrix structure, with dots concentrated along the diagonal and a few dots in the off-diagonal bands. The dots are arranged in a way that suggests a banded matrix structure.
